ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR MOANALUA ROAD

Dense Foliage Causes
Extra Gloom At Night

It has been proposed to install ten 16-candlepower electric lights along the Moanalua road on Mr. Damon's property some 500 feet beyond the grounds and up to the first corner after leaving Fort Shafter. The residents living in that vicinity have for a long time past been agitating to get these lights installed, as it is extremely dark on account of the dense foliage. Considering the traffic which passes over this section of the road and the close proximity to Fort Shafter, the lights are really urgently needed. The Board of Supervisors have not as yet authorized this work, but it is to be taken in hand very shortly. At their next meeting, to be held on or about the 17th of this month, this matter will be considered. This was to have come up at their last meeting but, owing to the pressure of business and the time occupied over the appropriation bill, it was deferred until a future date.

W. L. Frazee, it is presumed, will be authorized to undertake the installment of these lights.

AMONG THE many sailing vessels which are making slow passages to ports of the North Pacific, none is attracting more attention now than the British ship Wray Castle, which was 178 days out from Glasgow for Vancouver, B. C., on Nov. 7. While there is no reason for worry, the fact that the vessel has not been reported since she left Glasgow so long ago has given rise to talk that she may have met with some mishap.
